INDIA'S FUTURE.

GROUNDLESS FEARS.

SIMLA, September 8.
Following a keen debate, the Council of State by a large majority rejected without division a motion expressing apprehension and disappointment at Mr. Lloyd George's speech in the House of Commons relative to India's future.

This is the result of earnest appeals by several Indian members to their colleagues to drop the matter, as the fears are groundless, and the appeal of Sir William Vincent for maintenance of the House's reputation for sobriety and wisdom.

One Indian member declared the moderates wanted the civil service for years to come, while there were cries of "no" when Sir William Vincent asked whether the House wished to cease recruiting British officials.

WIRELESS IN WARFARE.

EARL ON CAVAN'S FAITH.

General the Earl of Cavan, Chief of the Imperial General Staff, in mail week inspected the Eton College Officers' Training Corps. The battalion paraded about 550 strong, under the command of Lieut.-Colonel A. O. Sheepshanks, D.S.O.

The Earl of Cavan, addressing the corps, said he was delighted to see that the leading boys of the school took a great interest in the Officers' Training Corps. When the captain of the eleven, the captain of the boats, the captain of the Oppidans, and those sort of people, encouraged the Officers' Training Corps, others would follow. He had seen one of their wireless sections, and he desired to say a word about wireless. It was his firm intention whilst he was Chief of the General Staff, not to allow any cables to be used in training, in front of divisions, and he was perfectly certain it would encourage the use of wireless. Everybody who took up that study now was a great asset to the British Empire, because he was certain we should be a long way ahead of other nations when we went to war, and would save hundreds of lives if we could use wireless throughout the whole Army, Territorial, or otherwise. Therefore he hoped that the authorities in college would encourage "listening in" to world wide waves, and that everything would be done in the corps to encourage the study of wireless.

Proceeding, the Earl of Cavan said we had just come out of Silesia, where it had been the duty of the British Army, with their Allies, to prevent trouble between the Germans and the Poles. On more than one occasion large bodies of German and large numbers of Poles had been just about to meet, and probably fight. A young subaltern of the British Army with a platoon of men went in between the two bodies, and said, "Go home," and they had gone home. Why? Because the nations trusted the British to play the game.

AN AIR CRUISER.

Elaborate precautions are being taken to ensure that no detail shall leak out of a gigantic flying ship which is now being built for the Air Ministry at Southampton.

The design of the craft, which, when completed will be the world's largest flying battleship, involves the results of a great amount of research work. The hull of the boat which has the appearance of an ordinary ship, has not yet been completed. It is made in one piece from stem to stern, and this gives it a resiliency which enables the craft to ride safely at anchor in the roughest seas.

There will be ample sleeping and living accommodation on the "hush" craft for a crew of about 20, and in addition provisions for many weeks' absence from port, while a large quantity of ammunition can be carried. It is intended that the flying ship shall operate with the Navy. It will be able to go out on manoeuvres without a "mother-ship," and when not flying ahead and acting as the "eyes of the Fleet," will be able to lie at anchor, or "taxi" through the water under its own power.

During operations the flying battleship will carry anchors, foghorns, riding lights, and all the other paraphernalia of an ocean-going vessel.

There are no floats on the boat itself and the wings are worked on the cantilever principle. They fold back when the ship is at anchor so that they shall suffer no damage from violent seas.

The flying battleship is to be fitted with two 600 h.p. engines. There are to be emplacements for several machine-guns.

HOME TRADE.

Messrs. Morreau and Spiegelberg, Manchester, report under date August 9.

Cotton.—The advance reported in our last report has been lost and the market is again weak.

Yesterday	17.50	16.15	16.13	16.20
Last week	18.00	16.45	16.45	16.70

Yarns.—Quotations are slightly easier than last week.

Cloth.—The reception of the Bureau Report of last week has been truly extraordinary. Traders in America; here and in consuming markets have flatly refused to follow it. A report of a contraction of 70.3 certainly justified a smart advance. As this could not be maintained it is obvious that buyers either have no confidence in the actual report or else they are convinced that consumption of cloth at higher prices will be considerably reduced.

Business has been small in volume. India is still the best customer, but the bids from the various markets of the Dependency have in many cases been quite out of reason. It is to be supposed that in some instance they are made with a view of testing the market.

China is still unsettled, and the typhoon in Swatow has upset the Hongkong market. The Straits remains quiet and the Dutch East Indies have still a considerable amount of financial troubles to face. Trade generally is upset by the international political situation. German, French, Italian and Belgian exchanges show large daily fluctuations. Feeling here is very pessimistic regarding the outcome of the London conference.

REFUGEES SWAMPING SMYRNA.

SMYRNA, September 8.
Thousands of refugees and deserters are arriving. The question is becoming grave as practically no steps have been taken regarding sanitation and food supplies. It is estimated that homeless refugees exceed 200,000.

Many British subjects are remaining at Smyrna and outlying villages. Fears are entertained for the security of British properties.

BRITISH SHIPS MOVING.

SMYRNA, September 8.
Rear-Admiral Tyndal, with the light cruisers "Cardiff" and "Concord" is leaving for Smyrna. Almost the entire Mediterranean Fleet is now concentrated in Near Eastern Waters.

HELP FOR REFUGEES.

ATHENS, September 8.

M. Calothropoulos has accepted the Greek premiership.

The United States Consul-General at Constantinople, who is chairman of the United States relief association, has undertaken to render all possible assistance to refugees from Asia Minor both at Constantinople and Smyrna.

GERMANY'S NEWSPAPERS.

DESPERATE CONDITION.

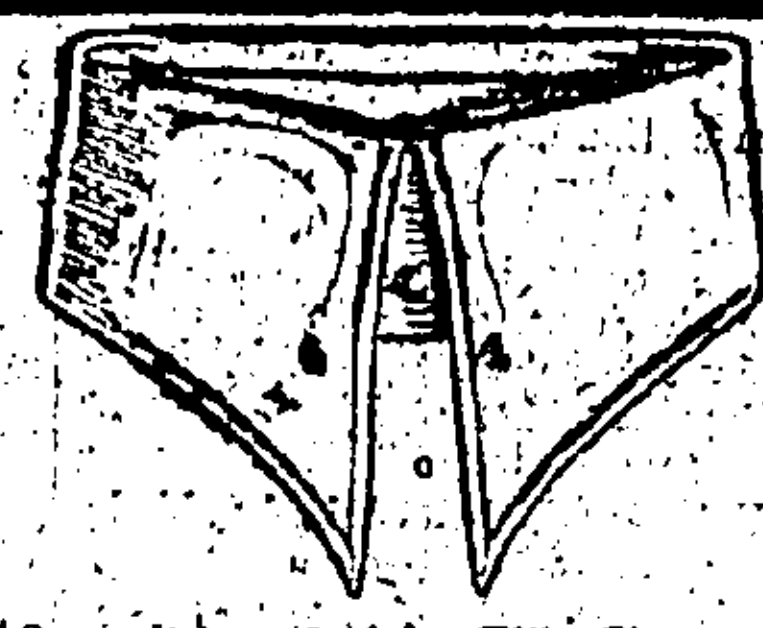

BERLIN, September 8.
The desperate condition of German newspapers was emphasized by Herr Leasing, the Westphalian representative, speaking at a meeting of the Reichsrat called to consider measures to assist the Press.

Herr Leasing mentioned that numerous newspapers had already ceased to exist and feared that the whole press of Germany would disappear unless the Government acted drastically. He pointed out that before the war double-wagon printing paper cost 2,000 marks and now cost 84,000. Paper manufacturers had raised the price although reputedly rolling in money.

Herr Schmidt, Minister of Economics, said he could not hold out much hope for the introduction of maximum paper prices. In order to alleviate the deplorable situation the price of wood must first fall, but the federal states were financially interested in prices of timber and he suggested that the federal governments should again be approached regarding the matter.

Deep-Seated Abscess in the Hip.
Remarkable Recovery after undergoing three operations without success.

Our Portrait is of Mrs. LAMBTON, of Moss's Mill, Witham, Essex, England, who writes:—
"I am writing to tell you of the benefit I have received from your Clarke's Blood Mixture. I had a deep-seated abscess in my hip and was laid up about fourteen months not able to do anything. I was in hospital nine months and had three operations. Still I was no better, so I asked to come home. I had been home three weeks still feeling very ill, so I thought I would try your Clarke's Blood Mixture. The first bottle I used fetched the pus out more than ever, and by the time I had taken half the second bottle I began to eat better, and the discharge began to get less. I persevered with the Mixture, and after a few weeks began to get about a little on crutches out of doors. Then I began to get stronger, and now I am feeling better than I have done for years. The abscess is quite healed—I can now do my work and walk quite a long distance with a stick. I am sure if people suffering the same as I was would give Clarke's Blood Mixture a fair trial it would do them good.
You can make whatever use you like
of this letter."

CLARKE'S BLOOD MIXTURE, by reason of its remarkable blood purifying properties, can be relied upon to give speedy relief and lasting benefit in cases of Eczema, Bad Legs, Abscesses, Ulcers, Boils, Pimples, Eruptions, Piles, Glandular Swellings, Rheumatism, Sciatica, Gout, Neuritis, and free from anything injurious. Of all Dealers—ask for and see you get

THOSE WICKED CHINA-MEN.CHINESE CHARACTER IN FACT
AND IN FICTION.(By Maria Moravsky in the New York Outlook.)There is a type of short story, quite popular in America, which may be classified under the general title
"The Heavens Chinese."Every one of my literary friends has one or two of them among his earliest efforts. Magazine issues are not complete without a picture of flat-nosed villain dropping poisonous powder into some one's last cup.
As to the "movie," they would go to speedy ruin were it not for "Dragon's Claws," "Mandarin's Loves," and the like.The fictitious Chinaman in the States is always more or less a sinister figure. It is he who smuggles the white slaves into the country under the ingenious guise of tea packages. It is he who sells drugs to young millionaires which they are innocently eating chop suey. It is he who—but what is the use of enumerating all his crimes? You saw them all on the screen.When I came to this country and saw the Chinaman painted in such dark colours, I was greatly surprised, even alarmed. I had often met with the Chinese citizens of Manchuria, which after the war of 1904 became a Russian province, and these quiet, law-abiding, hardworking, extremely honest people never once struck me as being romantically wicked. I dined in their restaurants, discussed things with their intelligent, bought silk from their wandering merchants, drank their "Dragon's Whiskers."
And not one dangerous meeting! Well, I thought, there must be something in the American air which develops the potential criminal instincts of the "heavenly Chinese."After seeing many a yellow menace
"movie" I was even afraid to intrust my luggage to a Chinaman. I dreaded Chinatown. I shuddered at the mention of Chow Men.

UNROMANTIC TRUTHS.

But not now. After my five years of studying America that romantically dreadful "Chinese" was shattered, to-gether with many another. The "heavenly Chinese" lost all his criminal splendour. He became, like any other foreigner, for the most part a poor, ignorant, hardworking thing, competing more or less successfully with the higher-paid American labourer.Sociologists say that here lies the main reason for hating the yellow man —his lowering of wages. But there is also another reason, a psychological one, which makes him in your eyes a mysterious criminal—his extreme reserve.We all are sub-consciously afraid of silent men. They affect us like silent danger. Especially if they happen to come from a distant country of which we know but little.
It is the primal instinct of self-preservation which urges us always to suspect the unknown, be it food, animals, ideas, or human beings.In Russia we did not fear Chinamen, because they did not come to us from abroad. On the contrary, the Russians invaded their territory, conquered their aristocratic province, made its population subjects of the Czar. We seldom fear our inferiors, and Chinamen seemed to the Russian masses infinitely inferior, since they were defeated.

FEAR OF THE UNKNOWN.

Here, Americans also assume superiority to the yellow men. But, as the Chinaman are not under your political protection, there always lurks in your contemptuous attitude toward them the fear of the unknown, the elusive, the strange.If you knew the Chinamen's soul, you would stop romanticizing about him. The yellow man would become for you just a differently coloured human being, with rather peculiar traits of national character, but without that terrible radiance of mysterious evil which fascinates the "movie" audiences. Unfortunately, great masses of Americans are interested but little in any country besides their own.

are highly educated, know English to perfection, and, when treated properly, they often throw aside their Oriental reserve and become cordial companions. They may teach this young nation of yours the wisdom of their ancient civilization. Their main national trait is honesty, as most travelers state. So you need not be afraid to trust a Chinaman with either your laundry or your friendship.But if the mysterious yellow villain changes into a friendly foreign visitor, what will become of the "movie"
"movie" stunt? How can I attack the beloved theme of the photoplay writers? No! For the sake of the moving picture, tradition, let us preserve the holy fear of Chinamen.

SAFETY AT SEA.

Fifty thousand ton liners may race each other across the great seas, their hundreds of passengers enjoying luxury undreamed thirty years ago, but the sea ever defies complete conquest. Slowly man is gaining greater ascendancy, but the elusive still rebels. There are yet terrible moments when a magnificent "Titanic" crashes to her doom or a humble "Hong Moh" is battered to pieces. From the "Titanic" to the "Egypt" one ship after another has taught the same lesson—safety measures are still inadequate. The "Egypt" sank in a smooth sea with help close at hand. Those of her ship's company who could support themselves in the water had a good chance of rescue, while a number of the "boats for all" securely attached to the davits went down with the ship. Human skill and resource must still devise means to improve existing appliances or the use of existing appliances.

That this necessity is appreciated by those who hold the power to have it met is proved by the report of the International Committee on Life-Saving Appliances and Wireless Telegraphy to the President of the International Shipping Conference. This committee was about to meet when the "Egypt" sank, and the details of that disaster they naturally connected with their report. With the loss fresh in their minds they passed the following resolutions:

"That the attention of the Board of Trade be drawn to this disaster, and to the fact that the opinions expressed at the International Conference are hereby confirmed as follows:

(1) The Board of Trade should, after the loss of the "Titanic," the whole question of boats and life-saving appliances to the Merchant Shipping Advisory Committee.

(2) That committee reported in favour of certain principles being adopted by the Board of Trade.

(iii) Had these recommendations been fully acted upon, subsequent experience under conditions both of war and of peace shows that loss of life at sea might have been diminished.

(iv) Nevertheless the Government's signatory to the Convention of London proceeded upon other principles which shipowners then feared, and which have proved to be detrimental to safety of life at sea.

"That all Governments be accorded to take immediate steps to revise the Convention in accordance with the report of the Merchant Shipping Advisory Committee 1912, as amplified by the recommendations of the committee of the International Shipping Conference concerned with safety of life at sea.

Naturally wireless telegraphy as a means of securing still greater safety at sea figured large in the committee's deliberations. They found that the more consideration they gave to the use of wireless the more they were led to confirm in the strongest terms the view expressed by the International Conference that the most immediate need in connection with the use of wireless was the development of an automatic device for receiving distress messages. Accordingly the committee resolved:

(a) That the governments of the various maritime States be urged again to apply themselves to the immediate approval of an automatic device to receive emergency calls;

(b) That with this object the purpose which such instrument is required to meet should be restricted to the taking of emergency calls under ordinary service conditions at sea; and

(c) That existing devices should at once be retested under the same service conditions with the object if possible, of approving immediately a device which will respond under normal service conditions at sea to the existing distress call but that if this is not possible action steps should be forthwith taken to agree internationally to a new distress call which is capable of being so taken.

Let the heading general recommendations: the committee specially endorsed the principle that boats in excess of those which can readily be launched are an encumbrance and a danger and that in a disaster many lives may be saved by light and handy buoyant apparatus. Since the "Titanic" a series of disasters at sea proves the danger of encumbering the decks with boats which cannot be launched, and the need for buoyant apparatus which can easily be handled or will float off when the ship sinks and give support till rescue comes.

Even the land lubber can appreciate the significance of these recommendations, and it is refreshing to find that unlike many committees this one seems determined to see that its findings shall not be ignored or nullified, on the report with the following resolution:

"That inasmuch as International Conventions become valueless, if any contracting government applies different rules, whether less or more severe, to all ships visiting her ports, the attention of governments signatory to the Convention should at once be called to instances in which the international accord of the Convention has been disturbed by particular regulations, in order that the disturbance may be removed."

Furthermore, with terrible consequences over attending neglect or delay, it is devoutly to be hoped that the governments concerned will not repeat the cardinal error made by the governments signatory to the 1914 Convention of London in departing at the instance of a natural but uninformed agitation from the principles contained in the report and in substituting therefor other principles which "failed in any degree commensurate with the anticipation of such Governments, to save life after marine casualties."

CHILDREN'S CORNER.

THE LOST COMB.

In Hongkong, as you know, it is hot for many months. Even the sea is sometimes as warm as a bath and the best thing to do in the summer weather is to go bathing. Now most people go in launches to the different bays on the island and the mainland and undress on board before plunging into the water. And that is how it happened that the comb, about which I am going to tell you, was lost.

Some children had been bathing at Junk Bay and as one of them was combing her hair by the side of the boat suddenly the launch gave a lurch. Splash—went the comb down into the green sea and there was no hope of finding it.

"Oh Mother," cried Margaret, the little girl, "My comb has fallen overboard. What shall I do?"

"There is not anything to be done Margaret," her mother answered. "It cannot be helped dear. Accidents will happen."

"Do you think that the fishes will find it and comb their fins with it?" asked Margaret as she peered down into the water.

"Perhaps they will," her mother replied laughing. And she did not think any more about it. But, if she had only known, this is what happened.

Soon after the launch had left on its homeward journey a tiny mermaid came swimming along that way. She swam slowly enjoying every minute of it. As she was not very big she was not allowed to go very far alone and that is why she did not hurry but, as she went she paused every now and then to pick up a beautiful shell or a piece of seaweed to add to the chain round her white neck.

She was very dainty and pretty and her golden hair floated behind her and as she swam she smiled.

"Why are you smiling Mermaid?" asked a big crab who came scuttling by.

"I was thinking about my birthday," the little thing replied. "It is not for some time yet but I have just been asking my mother if she will give me a golden comb like my sister's."

"And what did she say?" enquired the crab in a friendly way.

"She told me that I should almost certainly have one," answered the mermaid. "And you do not know how very glad I shall be to have one of my very own."

Now you may not know it but no mermaid is allowed to have a golden comb of her own before she is ten years old. It is like a twenty first birthday to them and is a sign that they are grown up and may sit and sing on the rocks for as long as they like. No mermaid is able to sing unless she is combing her golden hair and that is why the wee creature was so looking forward to her birthday.

The crab, who had been looking sideways as she spoke, for crabs always look and walk in a one-sided manner suddenly exclaimed, "Mermaid look!"

What, where?" she cried and then as she turned her head she saw the lost comb lying on a ridge of sand at the bottom of the sea. And oh how delighted she was when she picked it up!

"A white comb," she cried in joyful tones. "I have never seen one like it. Do you think that my mother will let me keep it?"

"I should go and ask her," advised the crab, and just then a voice was heard calling, "Pearl! Pearl! where are you? Pearl! come home. For the mermaid had been away much longer than usual.

When her mother heard about the finding of the comb and saw how delighted her little daughter was with it she told her that she might keep it especially as she was almost ten and so old enough to have a golden comb of her own. No one had ever seen such a thing as a white comb and if Margaret had only known what a treasure it had become she would never have been sorry that she had lost it.

SWEEP STAKE.

The Club ran a Derby Sweep Stake in February of 1,000 tickets at $5.00 each. CORRESPONDENCE.

WAR MEMORIAL.

(To the Editor of the China Mail.)

Sir,—I am a high time that public interest was aroused in the direction of insisting on the definite formulation of this scheme?

We have heard that the bulk of the money is to be used in erecting a Nursing Home, and we have lately also heard that a large contribution towards erection and maintenance can be obtained from the surplus funds of the Matilda Hospital if the proper details of the Nursing Home Scheme are submitted to the Court and found satisfactory from a charitable point of view.

How then, how do we stand? who can tell us how much money is already available, how much it will take to erect and endow a Nursing Home with adequate accommodation and equipment, and how much more money is needed to make up the required total?

It will soon be four years since the Armistice, and it is well over three since the Peace Treaty was signed with Germany, and how far has Hongkong really got with its War Memorial? 'Tis too much to say that it is still almost entirely in the air?

I suggest that if the Committee charged with the business of getting this scheme put into execution is too unwieldy, or its members too much taken up with other affairs to give it prompt and proper attention a special sub-committee (not necessarily composed of the original Committee but containing persons possessed of the necessary special knowledge among others a Doctor and an Architect) be appointed immediately with instructions to formulate a definite scheme with a close estimate of the cost of erection and maintenance, and lay the same before the Colonial Secretary not later than the 31st October.

I further suggest that the same be immediately published and that commencing with Armistice Day November 11th a special appeal be launched to obtain the further funds that will undoubtedly be required to make this institution a sound and satisfactory undertaking and worthy of the cause which it is meant to commemorate. I should not be surprised if it turned out that not half the money is at present in hand or in sight.

I believe that the Government took a leading part in the appointment of the Committee, and I suggest that the Colonial Secretary should call upon the Committee to report progress, and get a more on.

It would be a thousand pities if what is undoubtedly an excellent scheme should languish for lack of interest and support, but as long as the general body of the community is kept in the dark as regards all the details no progress is likely.

A Nursing Home doesn't grow by itself, and it's no use sitting with folded hands and expecting it to do so. Some one must get paper and pencil and figure things out.

Yours faithfully,

ANXIOUS.

Hongkong September 9, 1922.

A SEETHING CAULDRON.

GENERAL SIR TAN HAMILTON ON A "VINDICTIVE PEACE."

Unveiling a memorial to the men of Kilmadock and Dunne G. General Sir Tan Hamilton asked how it came about that the two last successful campaigns, the one against the Boers and the other against the Germans, have had such opposite results. How was it that the Boer War was an end to feuds, race hatreds, bankruptcies, disorders, and bloodshed, which had paralyzed South African progress for a generation, whilst the Great War, on the contrary, inflamed race hatred, bankruptcy, and murder over the best part of the whole world from Ireland in the West to Central Europe, which has been turned into a seething cauldron of hate including the whole of the Near East.

It was, he said, because our politicians entirely ignored the ideals of those to whom they had raised that memorial by making a vindictive instead of a generous peace.

Hooker.

At a General Meeting held on October 27th 1921, the Club organized a Hockey Section, but due to the difficulty of arranging friendly games this section was not developed. The following were elected to serve on the Sub-committee:—F. Schoepel (Temporary Captain), E. W. Bailton, E. Gerrard, J. Watson, O. O. Windman and A. E. Simmons (Hon. Secretary).

HOCKEY MATCH.

A team was entered in the Hongkong open Hockey Ball League but little enthusiasm was shown.

POLO INTERPORT.

MANILA TEAM COMING.

Hongkong polo enthusiasts are promised a rare treat early next month when a Manila team will arrive here about October 10, to play a series of three matches against Hongkong's best players. The chief game, of course, will be that between the visitors and Hongkong's best combination drawn from the Civilian and Services of the Colony, and will count for Interport honours. Beside this match, it has been arranged for the visitors to meet teams drawn entirely from the Services and Civilian respectively.

Three of the four members of the Hongkong Interport team which played against S'anghai for the Keewick Cup, will probably be included in the team representing Hongkong in the big game. They are Mr. C. C. Boyd, Capt. Neville and Capt. Fisher. Mr. J. E. H. Bibby, the other member of H'kong's "Keewick" team is at present on leave in England, and his place will probably be taken by Mr. Bartholomew. There is just a possibility that Capt. Fisher, who is still suffering from a broken collar bone, may not be able to play at all, in which case Hongkong will be greatly handicapped, with two of its most dashing players absent from the field.

The Services team will probably include H. E. Major-General Sir John Fowler, Capt. Neville, Capt. Fisher and another officer; while Boyd and Bartholomew will of course figure in the Civilian IV. The other two players cannot be decided upon until after a series of trial games has been played.

The Americans are expected to be a very representative combination of Manila's best, but they will probably be at a disadvantage on the strange ponies which will be provided by the Hongkong Polo Club. Nevertheless keen contests may be expected, and Hongkong is assured some of the best matches seen here since the visit of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales.

Y.W.C.A.

AUSTRALIA AND THE FAR EAST.

Australasian Y.W.C.A. Secretary for Japan and formerly Travelling Secretary of the Australian Student Christian Movement, Miss A. C. Duncan arrived here by the s.s. "Arafura" from Australia yesterday. Speaking to a China Mail reporter, Miss Duncan explained that the object of her association is to advance the mental and spiritual development of girls all over the world. The fully developed girl is their ideal. In order to secure international co-operation, national boards in different countries exchange secretaries. The Australasian National Board has a secretary in India working at Travancore and another in China (Miss Ella Ma'Neil) working at Shanghai.

"I am the first Australian secretary for Japan," continued Miss Duncan, "and I hope that by learning the language and coming in close touch with the women of Japan I shall be able to interpret for them the life of the women of Australia."

Miss Duncan added that the Australasian National Board hoped that very soon an Oriental secretary would join their staff in Australia.

Miss Duncan visits Shanghai, headquarters of the association in China, to meet the Chinese women leaders and to study the organization there.

BIG ARMS HAUL.

SMALL ARSENAL FOUND.

TWO YEARS JAIL FOR OFFENDERS.

Two Magistrates sat in the big Police Court this morning to hear a case in which the mistress of a cargo boat and one of her kokis were charged with the unlawful possession, without a permit, of 44 Mauser pistols, 130 revolvers, one Winchester rifle, 34 Mauser cleaning rods, 32 Mauser springs, 69 clips, 100 cleaning brushes, and 21,730 rounds of ammunition.

Seizure was made by Sergeant Canoy of the Water Police in the junk anchorage at West Point at 2.30 this morning.

The Sergeant was going through the anchorage in a sampans, when his attention was attracted to the defendants' junk by the fact that the front of it was covered up with canvas. Becoming suspicious, he boarded the junk. The woman who was keeping watch at the stern gave the alarm and three men rushed up from the hold. Two of them jumped overboard and escaped. The male defendant ran to a neighbouring junk where he was arrested. In the hold the Sergeant found the contraband, nearly all of which was done up in packing. About 2,000 rounds of ammunition were scattered about the floor as if the boat-people had been disturbed in the act of packing the stuff. The woman produced the licence and said she was the mistress.

The woman told the Magistrates that a sampan came alongside in the middle of the night and paid her $10 to keep several packages until called for. She did not know they contained arms.

The man said he was asleep when the stuff was brought on board, and also when the Sergeant came.

They received 2 years hard labour each.

FREEDOM OF A WIFE

HOLIDAY ALONE IF SHE LIKES

A wife who shattered 21 years of married life by deciding to go away for her holiday alone was granted a separation order at Brighton.

The husband, William Sherlock, a jobbing decorator, said he objected to his wife going to London for a week alone. A quarrel followed, after which he left the house and had not since returned.

It was urged on behalf of the husband that a man had legal control over his wife's movements, but the Magistrate held that she was free to go on holiday alone if she chose to do so.

CONVICTS' WAR MEMORIAL.

The prisoners at Camp Hill Preventive Detention Prison, Parkhurst, were present, with numerous prison officials and members of the Prison Advisory and Visiting Boards of Magistrates at a service in the Church of England chapel recently, when a handsome memorial to ten convicts who gave their lives in the war was dedicated by the Bishop of Winchester. Says home paper in mail week.

The memorial, which was unveiled by Colonel Charley, commander of the 1st Royal Ulster Rifles, consists of a teak cabinet, made by one of the prisoners, containing a beautifully carved Calvary executed in lime wood, the gift of the children of the parish of St. Bartholomew, Brighton.

The prison numbers and army records of the men commemorated are inscribed on panels on the doors of the cabinet.

One of the men commemorated gave his blood to save the life of a wounded comrade. He won a military medal, and was killed just after he had been granted an absolute pardon from the Home Secretary as a reward for good Army Service. Buglers of the Royal Ulster Rifles sounded the Last Post.

WEDDING STOPPED.

LICENCE TO BURMESE PRINCE WITHHELD.

The Registrar-General has taken action with regard to an announcement of marriage between Prince Maung Gyi, of Mandalay, and Miss Sylvia Charlotte Helen Forde, who lives with her mother at Wimbledon.

Prince Gyi is an engineering student at a London college and is the grandson of King Mindon of Burma, who was the father of the last King of Burma, King Thibaw, deposed by the British in 1885. The announcement of the engagement was made on a Monday. On Wednesday the Registrar-General circularised all superintendent registrars with a warning letter stating that should a licence be applied for by either Prince Maung Gyi or Miss Sylvia Forde, they were to withhold the issue of a certificate and notify Somerset House at once.

The edict of the Registrar-General will prevent any marriage from taking place in any civil office over which he has jurisdiction.

PRINCE'S STATEMENT.

Interviewed at the home of his fiancée, the prince explained that the objection had evidently been made under the impression that the marriage was taking place immediately.

"It was never our intention to marry before I was 21," he said, "but we were anxious to announce the engagement. I had already written to my father on the subject, and I do not think he can have received my letter yet and has erred under a complete misapprehension as to the status of my fiancée. I am going out to Burma in order to explain the circumstances."

WEIGHING BY LIGHT.

WORLD'S TINIEST SCALES.

If you can imagine a single grain of some substance divided into 600,000,000 parts, and one of those parts weighed accurately upon a balance, you will get some idea of the sensitiveness of the latest laboratory weighing machine.

This balance, devised by Hans Peterson, is an improvement on the delicate quartz balance made time ago by two scientific men named Stiede and Grant.

The beam of the balance is a small piece of quartz measuring less than two inches in length and weighing about a grain only. What would correspond to the pans in an ordinary pair of delicate scales, are suspended from quartz threads a thousandth of a millimetre (1-25,000 of an inch) in diameter.

The actual weighing is done by measuring the vibrations of the balance, by means of a spot of light thrown upon a scale, which shows the actual movements of the balance enormously magnified.

Such refined weighing has to be done in a vacuum, and the instrument is mounted in a container from which the air can be exhausted before the actual work commences.

The balance itself weighs about 3 grains and measures to a ten millionth of a milligram.

NEW FAR EAST SERVICE

U.S. LINE'S VENTURE.

The Isthmian Steamship Lines will inaugurate soon a new freight service to the Far East, with direct sailings from Philadelphia and Baltimore to Dutch East Indian and Philippine ports, according to New York advices. Two steamers will be used in the service, and the first, the Fairfield City, has sailed. A second steamer will sail on September 30th.

Far Eastern ports at which cargo will be taken on or discharged include Manila, Lolo, Heng, Belawan Deli, Port Swettenham, Singapore, Batavia, Samarang, and Sourabaya. Norton, Lily and Co. are general agents for the new service, which will be a valuable extension to the already extensive Far Eastern routes maintained by the Isthmian Lines.

The 1st constable charged with the theft of 60 cents from a chair coolie in Robinson Road was sentenced to 3 months by Mr. R. E. Lindell this morning.

A Chinese passenger by the s.s. "China" who said that he had lived 40 years in America was this morning fined $150 by Mr. R. E. Lindell for the possession of a revolver and 18 rounds of ammunition.

A daring robbery was committed in Wyndham Street at 7 p.m. yesterday when a Japanese named Yoshida had a pair of gold rimmed spectacles snatched from his face by a Chinese youth. He gave chase but the thief escaped.

STEAMER STRANDED.

"ARAFURA" MISHAP NEAR BRISBANE.

The E. & A. steamer "Arafura" which arrived here yesterday from Australia for Japan had an unpleasant experience leaving Brisbane on August 10.

Sailing from New Farm Wharf at seven o'clock in the morning, the vessel had safely cleared the river and was making deep water when she went aground. Bumping gently on the hard sandy bottom, she remained firmly stranded for about an hour until towed off stern by the tug waiting near Morton Island for the pilot. None the worse for the mishap, which occurred in fine weather fortunately, the "Arafura" was soon under weigh again.

The pilot was in charge the whole time, and the accident is said to have been due to a mistake on his part. He is reported to have attempted to take the steamer on the wrong side of the buoy marking the last shoal before deep water.

THE CHINA MAIL

NAVAL AND MILITARY NEWS.

Vice-Admiral Andrew T. Long, the newly-appointed commander of the American Naval Forces in European waters, has arrived at Plymouth, and proceeded to Southampton where he hoisted his flag on the battleship Utah. He succeeds Vice-Admiral E. A. Anderson, who is going to the Far East as Commander-in-Chief of the Asiatic Fleet, in the place of Admiral Joseph Strauss. Vice-Admiral Long has been hitherto Chief of Staff in the United States Atlantic Fleet, the duties of which post will be assumed by Rear-Admiral G. W. Williams, on August 10. Of the units which Vice-Admiral Long will have under his orders, the majority are at present in Turkish waters and in the Black Sea. Quite a number of officers from disbanded Irish regiments have been posted to the King's Regiment, the 2nd Battalion of which is at Hongkong. These include Capt. T. B. N. Dams from the Leinster Regiment; Capt. V. W. H. Venour from the Leinster Regiment; Capt. W. O'Brien, M.C., from the Connaught Rangers; Lieut. J. J. B. Gaffney, M.C., from the Royal Irish Regiment; Lieut. V. E. Benke, Lieut. H. A. Banke, and Lieut. T. E. S. Jennings from the Connaught Rangers, and Sec. Lieut. T. O. Kerin from the Royal Munster Fusiliers. The influx of so many extra officers will kill promotion in the King's Regiment for many a long day to come. Before these transfers were effected, the regiment was over-officered. Lieut. Charles W. G. Coventry has been appointed to the sloop "Cyclamen," Commander Vivian R. Brandon, O.B.E., East Indies Station, from the 24th inst. Lieut. Coventry, who is a relative of the Earl of Coventry, entered the Royal Navy in 1915, and reached his present rank in July of last year. He was latterly serving in the light cruiser "Danae" in home waters. The announcement that the "Hood" and the "Repulse"—the two finest battleships afloat in commission—are to be sent to Rio de Janeiro, has given rise to the suggestion that the ships are not sufficient for use in visiting South American and Central American waters. It is an undoubted fact that British prestige in those waters has considerably fallen since the abolition of the South American Squadron. It is said that the Admiralty itself was not in love with the scheme of reducing the South American Squadron, but as its existence was more of a political than a strategic necessity, it had to give way to the cry of economy raised by the most wasteful and extravagant Government that the British Empire has ever been under. Consequently, the policy of "showing the flag" is one that can be very beneficially followed in South American and Central American waters. The British Navy has always been very popular in those waters, as was pointed out in these notes when the British Government, in an ill-considered light of economy—which since has not justified itself in any shape or form—decided to do without the South American Station.—London and China Express.

CHURCH NOTES.

THE THIRTEENTH SUNDAY AFTER TRINITY.

To-morrow's Epistle is easier to understand if we read all the third chapter of Galatians. St. Paul wants to teach them and we are also Gentiles that after the incarnation the Jews were no longer the "chosen people" of God and the promises made to them are to be shared by all Christians. "For," says St. Paul, "If ye be Christ's, then are ye Abraham's seed and heirs according to the promise."

"Man was made for eternal happiness and if he refuses it he must have eternal sorrow."

Twice during His Ministry Jesus asked this direct question "what must we do to inherit eternal life?" once by the young ruler and now in to-morrow's Gospel by a lawyer who is not content with the reply and begins to argue about it. "How readest thou the law?" asks Jesus and the lawyer quotes from Deuteronomy VI, 5, the text written on the Jewish phylacteries. Love of God, from which will spring love for man. Then to the question "Who is my neighbour?" Jesus replies by telling the story of the traveller who fell among thieves. A symbolical meaning can be read into it, if we wish. Jerusalem the place of the temple where God was worshipped, Jericho the worldly city, the thieves all the evil influences waiting to attack man once he has started on the downward path. The Priest and the Levite representatives of the Law from whom no sympathy can be expected by those who have been robbed and can offer nothing in return, and lastly the Good Samaritan Jesus Christ Himself, never giving up hope, though the poor man is half dead, cleaning his wounds, binding them up so they may bleed no more, tenderly carrying him to a place of safety and rest.

Since the discovery of the Holy Cross by St. Helena in the fourth Century September 14th. has been observed by thousands of Christians as a day of thankful remembrance.

Sometimes it is simply called Holy Cross day, or sometimes "The Exaltation of the Holy Cross." The Emperor Constantine had a stately basilica built over the spot where the Cross had borne the Crucified Saviour, also enclosing the Holy Sepulchre and for many years just before Passion tide the Cross was exposed for the veneration of the people.

As circumcision was the sign of the Jew, the Cross is the sign and glory of Christians. It is made on their foreheads at Baptism and often traced by them afterwards signifying their willingness to obey Christ's command.

"Take up thy Cross and follow Me." St. Cyril of Jerusalem told his catechumens to trace the Cross upon their foreheads to drive away Satan. "Make that sign he says" whenever you eat or drink when you lie down or rise up, in a word let it accompany every action of your life." One hundred and six Churches in England are dedicated to the Holy Cross and often our Churches are cruciform in shape, the Chancel forming the head, the transept the arms, the nave the body of the Cross the altar from which the Sacrifice ascends, representing the heart.

"So, in glory parted never from the Saviour's shining side. Graven on our hearts for ever Be the Cross and Crucified."

Now that the hot days are over, St. Peter's Church is re-uming the ordinary hours of service; they are: 8 a.m. Holy Communion, 11 a.m. Sung Eucharist or Matins.

The experiment of having summer services at 9 a.m. every Sunday has Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

This remedy has no superior as a cure for colds, coughs and whooping cough. It has been written with millions of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy can be seen as a remedy to a child's cough. It is not only a cure for colds and coughs, but it is a remedy for all ailments of the chest and throat. It is a remedy for all ailments of the chest and throat. It is a remedy for all ailments of the chest and throat.

A RUSSIAN MIRACLE.

MYSTERIOUS REGILDING OF CROSS.

An interesting tale comes to me from the city of Rostoff, on the Don, in Soviet Russia, says a correspondent to a home paper. It will need some explaining on the part of our men of science, and I would not have mentioned it if the official Soviet Press had not done so. One morning citizens going at sunrise to attend early Divine Service in the great cathedral were surprised to see the cross on the central dome sparkling as it had been newly gilt. The golden crosses and cupolas of the Russian churches are a well known landmark, but, neglected under the Bolshevik regime, they have all become dull and tarnished. The great cross on the cathedral blazed, while the crosses on the small cupolas surrounding it remained dark. The people cried that a miracle had occurred.

From all parts of the town crowds precipitated themselves towards the market place. Very soon the thousands of wax candles before the icons lit up its dark interior. People continued to arrive, filling the market-place. The great house occupied by the Cheka was just opposite. The "Red" sentries became apprehensive of an attack, and called out the guard. The Red soldiers came forward to disperse the faithful, but they were overwhelmed and forced to take off their caps and make the sign of the cross. Cavalry arrived and re-established order with their heavy whips.

The clergy of the cathedral were arrested, brought into the Cheka building, and under menace of death ordered to stop the "miracle" immediately. This the poor fellows naturally could not do. At last one of them had a brilliant idea, of which the leaders of the Cheka approved. The town was placarded with large notices explaining to the population that the gilding of the cross had been renovated by the action of the new high powered wireless station just installed. The fact of the renewal of the cross is confirmed from several sources, but one doubts if the explanation of its wireless source is the correct one.

been successful, although, of course, there have been a few to whom the early hour has been an inconvenience.

News comes from home that the Church Reform League needs more financial backing in order that it may carry on its splendid work.

All the reform work that is going on in the Church at the present time is partly (and perhaps mostly) due to the efforts of this society. It was through the work of the League that the Enabling Bill has been passed and that those in authority have been forced to look into scandals connected with the sale of livings and government appointment of bishops and many other things. The Church cannot be healthy until she is freed from the greed and tyranny of some of the old stages and from some of her obsolete and mundane methods of working.

"Some people who used to subscribe every year have now ceased to do so because they realise that reforms are coming thick and fast, and therefore they feel that there is now no longer any need for the League. It is a great mistake to deprive ourselves of its guiding force for there are many who are only too eager for its activities to cease."

It is up to Churchmen who want a purified Church to do their bit towards the maintaining of such an excellent Society.

A splendid book on Penances has just been written by Godfrey Callaway, S.S.J.E., its title being "The Ministry of Reconciliation." It is very lucid on the subject and should prove of real value to those who want to have a good understanding of the "confessional" in our branch of the Church.

AFTERMATH OF CHINA'S WAR.

A PROGRAMME OF REFORM.

The Peking correspondent of the Manchester Guardian writes:— Events are following fast on each other in China; in a few days we may not recognise the China about whose prostrate body-politic the militarists raged only a few weeks ago. The other day unconstitutionality received its first shock in the resignation of the President, Hsu Shi-chang, the President whom the Powers recognised, but who was regarded as the stumbling-block to a return to legality by Chinese in every quarter of the Republic. General Wu Pei-fu, after an exhibition of that indecision and innate distaste for unpleasant tasks that seems to be inherent in him, suddenly declared that Hsu Shi-chang must go. The fact was not conveyed to the President personally. That would have been too brusque. It was passed on to Hsu by all his friends in the capital and they received the news by telephone from Wu himself. The people were murmuring among themselves that after all the civil war had turned out to be a victory for the President, when Wu released his bombshell.

Up to this time Hsu Shi-chang had been manipulating the wires to some purpose. He had almost prepared the people for the pardon of Chang Tso-lin; he had planned the creation of a Cabinet partly representative of Wu Pei-fu; and, most important of all, he had almost ensured the continuance in office of the heirs of the old military party and the old mandarinate, who are headed by General Wang Shi-cheng, the proposed Premier, and the President himself, respectively. He had gone so far as to bless the reconvening of the old Parliament, the Constitutional Assembly that was dismissed in 1917, even though the renewal of its activities would usher in a new order which could have no place for him as President. Hsu staked on his ability to manipulate the members when they reassembled. It was, therefore, a surprise to him when the Assembly, at least those of them who are not in Canton, declared that Hsu Shi-chang's position was illegal, and moved to restore General Li Yuan-hung to the office. Wu Pei-fu also came forward with dire threats of what he would do if the President did not vacate the Palace in three days, and so Hsu Shi-chang, the illegal Chief Executive of China for nearly four years, had to go the way of all things illegal.

After some other statements of the position as it appeared when he was writing, but which have been in part modified by cable news, the correspondent concludes: It is now the people's turn to show an interest in their own political salvation. They have been strangely quiet so far; even the students have shown little of the interest they display when China's international relations are the theme of international discussion. Wu Pei-fu is waiting on the people; that appears to be his guiding motive; and, in view of the fact that they have ample evidence that his aims are honest, that his ambitions are his country's, and that his aspirations coincide with those of even the most vociferous student, they should take this opportunity of rallying to a standard that can better be upheld to-day than at any other time in the Republic's history.

HOPEFUL SIGNS IN CHINA.

A special correspondent writes from Hongkong to the Trade Supplement of The Times.—At present the Government or Governments that claim to rule in the provinces of Kwangtung cannot enforce authority, and experience has shown that it is unsafe to move merchandise along the rivers—the great trade arteries of Southern China. Brigands and pirates are masters of the situation. It is hopeless to purchase goods when you know quite well that as soon as the goods pass beyond British territory there will be very little chance of marketing them. They will be captured by some human parasite and the merchants of this colony know quite well that there is but little prospect of redress.

For months the state of business has been steadily growing worse. Many ships continue to come into port and go out again; just now the harbour is full. The "godowns" or buildings where merchandise is stored are also full. Yet the local merchant says "nothing doing." There will be "nothing doing" until there is some sort of political authority and order in Canton and the adjoining country. The Chinese in the interior want the goods now in Hongkong, and they want to export. As soon as transport is reasonably safe there will be a renewal of activity. None of the European merchant houses of repute has ceased to "carry on." It is practically certain that they will tide over the bad times.

BRIGHTER CRICKET.

THE GAME AS PLAYED IN SOUTH AMERICA.

"The demand for brighter cricket, which has again broken out with its early summer severity, seems to have been furnished with a solution, so far as South America is concerned," writes Hickson in The Cricketer. "By cricket we hasten to add, is not meant the mere performances of the players, interesting enough though they may be, but Cricket the National Game—the reading or writing of newspaper reports."

"Having made this explanation, we venture to affirm, without fear of contradiction, that the Argentine Republic is the present holder of the Aches. This statement may come as a surprise to students of Wisdom and other standard, but serious works on the game: it will also assuredly, when we have proved our case, occasion some slight disappointment in Australia, but we have a public duty to perform, and if, as Mr. Pecksniff remarked, 'Truth will prevail,' we do not shrink from bearing the odium of responsibility, which we shall insure by effecting such a result."

"Quite recently a team from Brazil visited Buenos Aires, and its matches against the Argentine Republic produced performances to which 'Wisden' furnishes no parallel. Thus of Dorrington, one of the 'batting aces' we read: 'The spotlight must be turned on Herbert Dorrington. He gave a real good punching display, scoring slowly at first, until getting his eye sharpened, he proceeded to show that his hitting powers are on a level with Jack Dempsey's.' This, however, was quite early in the tour, before the writers had got their hand in and better was to come. Respecting later games, we learn that 'Morris uses the port side when batting,' and 'had a horseshoe in his pocket, narrowly escaping being stumped; that 'the ball was kept busy disarranging the landscape,' and that 'rums came faster than Harry Ford builds flivvers,' and that 'Pryor entered disguised as a batsman.' Some of us in this country thought we knew something about cricket, but so far as the brighter cricket, for which many have pined is concerned, it is evident our ignorance is profound."

BOWLING WITH THE FORK HAND.

"The bowlers were dealt with in a manner quite as picturesque. Mr. H. C. Morrissey, we are told, 'bowed with the precision of a steamhammer and had the visitors eating out of his hand.' Presumably his victims were among the rabbits of the side, but on that point—a mere detail—a story is silent. After being told that 'Naumann uses the fork hand when bowling' and that 'Oliver used his hand for something, beyond a hat-rack,' we learn that 'the spreadings of the side, Foy, Salmonson, and Bryans were working on all six cylinders, but all to no purpose; one appears to put a throttle hold on the run getting until Rishworth put up one in the direction of Mold at cover slip, and then scouted it in like a thirsty Irishman pounces on a glass of soda.' We had been hoping for better things, but begin to fear that England is hopelessly outclassed."

"It was with interest we read of 'Brazil folding-up like a trick tobacco pouch and fizzling away in the second innings,' which 'lasted as long as a New Year resolution.' In such circumstances it seemed only natural 'the visitors had as much chance for victory as the ex-Kaiser of receiving a gold service set from the Belgian Government.' In the second Test Match, Argentina started at 13.40 and for a time play was as quiet as a deaf and dumb picnic, so slow was the scoring.' As though to compensate for the latter event however, there was supplied a good brand of food to the hungry spectators. It did one's heart good to hear them eat."

"Surely, South America is the home of the Brighter Cricket."

A FAMOUS YACHT.

With reference to the announcement that the famous yacht "Sunbeam" has passed into the hands of Sir Walter Runciman, Bart., and the Right Hon. Walter Runciman, it is interesting to recall that under the late Lord Brassey's flag the vessel sailed over 200,000 miles. During the war she was a hospital ship in the Mediterranean. Under her new owner she has been completely re-equipped and reconditioned, and sailed on August 6 for Denmark, Sweden, and Norway. The "Sunbeam" is described as an unvalued vessel, and when under full sail is described as one of the most beautiful things in the world.

She had previously been round the world more than once, crossed the Atlantic several times, and amongst those who had cruised in her were Mr. W. B. Gladstone and Alfred Lord Tennyson and many naval and military commanders.

BRITISH EMPIRE EXHIBITION.

DOMINIONS AND COLONIES BOOKING SPACE.

The arrangements for the great British Empire Exhibition in London in 1924 are proceeding satisfactorily, and the Commissioners who are now travelling in the Dominions are obtaining satisfactory results. At present they are in New Zealand and are expected in Canada shortly.

That the Dominions and Colonies are keenly interested and alive to the value of the proposed Exhibition is shown by recent decisions to give active support. The Commonwealth of Australia has decided to appropriate £250,000 to defray the cost of Australia's participation—£200,000 for the erection and preparation of the Australian pavilion of 150,000 square feet, and the remainder to cover the cost of procuring and shipping the exhibits.

The Government of India propose to have a building comprising 100,000 square feet, and the estimated cost is £167,000. At a meeting of East Indian merchants and others held in London recently, Sir William Meyer, High Commissioner for India who presided said that while the Government of India, provided the building, each Province would decide the nature of its own exhibits through the agency of local committees, except that certain of the larger activities of India, such as forestry, could be better shown in special sections. The project was warmly commended by Sir Charles McLeod, Sir Frank Carter, Sir Marshall Reid, and others, and a small advisory committee was appointed. Mr. Vijayaraghava Achariyar, the Commissioner for India in connection with the Exhibition, is now on the way to England to ascertain what kind of exhibits are required. After his return at the end of September he will travel throughout British India and the native States to collect exhibits.

The Federated Malay States have decided to take 50,000 square feet of space at the Exhibition and the Government of the Gold Coast are applying for 15,000 square feet.
